26th free jumping competition in Verden

Verden. On Wednesday, March 29, the 26th free jumping competition of the Hannoveraner Show Jumping Breeding Programme will take place in Verden. There is a large number of successful show jumpers who made their first public appearance in the Niedersachsenhalle as three- or four-year-olds. In their pedigrees, modern sires meet proven Hannoveraner dam lines. 59 three- and 43 four-year-olds were entered. The free jumping competition will be broadcast live on the internet at ClipMyHorse from 9 a.m. CET.

The judges are the renowned show jumping riders and trainers Alois Pollmann-Schweckhorst, Warstein, and Oliver Ross, Thedinghausen, as well as Thomas Schöning from the Hannoveraner Verband. Many of the young "high-flyers" have a great future ahead of them. Often the free jumping competition of the Hannoveraner Show Jumping Programme was the first milestone on the way to top sport. For example, the Carrico/Acorado son Carriado (breeder: Markus Klindworth, Sauensiek), third in his class in 2015, is now competing internationally with Germany's Marco Kutscher. The free jumping competition is judged on technique, scope and jumping intelligence.
